Havana, Aug 27 (Prensa Latina) The daily Informative Roundtable Television Show broadcast a 24-minute new video of a meeting between Cuban Revolution leader Fidel Castro and Venezuelan lawyers taking place on August 22.

According to the island's media, the television and radio show become a space to analyze the repercussions of the first video with the ten young lawyers that graduated from the University of Carabobo in central Venezuela, broadcast by the Cuban television on Sunday night.

The jurists, members of the second "Fidel Castro Ruz" graduation, visited the Cuban leader and talked with him for about three hours, the television's main news show reported.

After that meeting, the Venezuelan young lawyers toured the Cuban central city of Santa Clara, and eastern Santiago de Cuba, before returning to their country.

In Santa Clara, they visited the memorial that keeps the remains of Argentinean-Cuban guerrilla fighter Ernesto Che Guevara.

In Santiago de Cuba, they paid tribute to Cuban National Hero Jose Marti and visited historic sites related to Fidel Castro's life.
