More than 47,000 members make up the Greek group for the Nobel Peace Prize for Cuban doctors, with 70 organizations between unions, associations, portals and websites and the interaction of some 400,000 followers.

Velisarios Kossivakis, administrator of the Greek Team Nobel Prize to Cuban Doctors 2021 reported in a letter addressed to all the promoters of the initiative, to which Prensa Latina had access, the characteristics of the organizations and citizens of his country who stand in solidarity with what he describes as a noble cause.

Among those who joined this project, which was launched on March 28th, he highlighted those with a long history of supporting Cuba, such as the Cuban-Greek Friendship and Solidarity Associations of Athens, Thessaloniki and Kalamata, as well as the Jose Marti Cultural Association.

Kossivakis stressed that members from more than 75 countries residing in Greece take part in this conglomerate of organizations.

Regarding the interest aroused by the movement in favor of Cuban doctors, he reported that there is a large youth participation represented by 1,350 students.
